Presents:

Jessica Kelly, J.D.

Special Education Advocate and Consultant

“Lessons Learned While Becoming a Parent Advocate”

- Through a combination of talk and Power Point, Jessica will tell her story of advocating for her own child with dyslexia, and going on to be trained as a professional lay advocate.
- She will share tips and advice that will help parents get the most appropriate services for their children at all stages from evaluation through negotiating an IEP. In the face of limited public school staff and tight budgets, this information is invaluable to all individuals.

This is of interest to parents, teachers, other professionals and all interested individuals.
